

Internet Definitions

Modem: translates from _____ to _____ and from analog to digital

DSL: _____ (Frontier) – allows access to the Internet, faster than 56k modem/dial up, connected 24 hours a day, can talk on phone at same time you are connected to the Internet

Cable Modem: (Comcast) – allows access to the Internet, faster than _____, connected 24 hours a day, can talk on the phone, watch tv while connected to the Internet

T1/T3: similar to a cable modem, but larger, faster, and used for _____ (we have one T1 line for Sheldon and Smedberg)

Internet Service Provider (ISP): _____ that gives you access to the Internet (Comcast/Frontier)

World Wide Web (WWW): the _____ of computers

Browser: the _____ that allows you to interact with Internet sites (Internet Explorer, etc.)

Toolbar: the rows of buttons at the _____ of the browser (File, Edit, Back, Home, etc.)

Status Bar: located at the _____ of the browser, it let's you know where you are at or the progress of a request

URL: _____, this is where you can type in the address of a particular web site and go directly to it

Internet Definitions

HTML: _____, this is the language of web site design. You can see this language by going to View and Source Code from the toolbar on the browser.

Home Page: either the first page that opens with your _____ or the opening page of a _____

Client: a computer that _____ information from a server (the computers in the lab)

Server: a computer that _____ information for a client (Jack)

.com: _____ web site, created to make money

.edu: _____ web site, published by schools or school employees

.org: _____ - _____ organization

.mil: US _____

.net: _____

.gov: US _____

.es: _____

---

Search Engine: A _____ dedicated to finding other web sites related to requested topics.

Search String: A combination of key words and _____ used to find web sites within a search engine.

Internet Definitions

Boolean Logic: The use of the words, "_____", "_____" and "_____" in search strings to aide in the search of web sites relating to a requested topic.

---